Red Deer Likes Power Scheme Stonecutter Killed S. African Parliament Opens

FIRST PARLIAMENT OF NEW UNITED SOUTH AFRICA ASSEMBLED TODAY AMID SCENES OF SPLENDOR UNAMID IN COLONY

Duke of Connaught Opened the Legislative Assembly and Delivered the Inaugural Address—City Was Gaily Decorated and Thousands Lined the Streets and Cheered the Royal Guest and Other Dignitaries as They Drove to the Parliament Buildings.

(Special to the Capital.)

Cape Town, South Africa, Nov. 4.—A pageant in which a large number of troops, civic organizations and delegations, representing four component states of the Union, took part, preceded inauguration of the first of United South Africa Parliament today. The procession made its way through streets gay with flags and bunting to the Assembly Building, while all along the route thousands of men, women and children manifested their interest and enthusiasm in the occasion by vociferous cheers.

In the Legislative Chambers the scene was most impressive when the Duke of Connaught was escorted to the rostrum. His Royal Highness was accompanied by the Dukes of Connaught and Princess Patricia. The Duke's Uniform as Field Marshal was partly concealed by the robes of office. Grouped about the Royal party were several high officials of the Union Government and others who had conspicuous part in bringing the new Commonwealth into existence.

Among those whose appearance in the chamber called forth enthusiastic demonstrations of feeling were Viscount of South Africa, Lord Balfour of Gladstone, the Governor General, Sir Alfred Milner, the Premier and General Christiaan de Wet.

The address of the Duke of Connaught was of course the most prominent feature of the opening of the Commons. His Royal Highness dwelt at considerable length upon the importance of the occasion as a step in the process of imperial development. In behalf of the King, he expressed the regret which His Majesty felt over his inability to be present in person as had been originally expected, but which project he had been forced to abandon on account of his responsibilities immediately following on his accession to throne.

The speech of the Duke of Connaught was made in a loud clear tone and impressive silence. At its conclusion the formal ceremony came to an ending.

Cape Town, S.A., Nov. 4.—The Royal Standard and Union Jack of Great Britain, flying from the flagstaff of the assembly here this morning in token of the fact that the day was designated for the assembling of the first parliament of the South African Union had arrived.

Large crowds began to assemble in the forenoon and continued to grow until long before the hour fixed for the opening ceremony thousands of persons were massed about the entrances to the legislative hall. The opening ceremonies were conducted with dignified simplicity and in the presence of a large amount of glamour and splendor. The presence of the Duke of Connaught represented the King of England and the public interest in the occasion.

"DISEASE LUMPS" PROVE TO BE GOLD

Immigrant Landing at New York
Startled Physician With Curious Deformities.

Then He Took Them Off

They Were Bundles of Gold and Paper Money Worth Twenty Thousand Dollars.

New York, Nov. 4.—When the immigration physician, on board the liner Kaiserin Augusta Victoria this morning, got to the cabin where he was to examine a little startled. Rosenberg had lumpy arms and his shoulders seemed badly deformed.

The inspector, speaking in German, told Rosenberg that he would have to detain him and then Rosenberg explained that the department held up all persons with physical disabilities for fear that they would not be able to support themselves. The doctor spoke slowly and carefully in order to understand him.

Whereupon the suspect replied in excellent English that he didn't think the lumps on his arms and shoulders would hinder him, or that he would ever have to be supported by the public. He mentioned to Mrs. Rosenberg and took off his coat. His wife ripped out the lining. Rosenberg's lumps and bumps proved to be gold and bills. He didn't stop counting out money till he had shown the equivalent of $10,000. Then he said the coat still contained as much more.

The physician begged, Rosenberg's lumps for the money and then Rosenberg explained that he had sold his lands in Schleswig-Holstein and, with Mrs. Rosenberg had come to New York to farm and settle in Oregon. He learned English on a previous visit to America.

HEBREW BIBLE IN COURT

C. C. McCaul Presented Court With One and Eliminates Old Practice

A Hebrew Bible made its appearance in the Supreme Court yesterday and was particularly in evidence in the swearing in of Jewish witnesses in a case now pending. It is understood the objection arose to the rather crude method hitherto in practice of turning the Bible upside down and having the witness kiss the front portion, that is, the Old Testament.

Mr. McCaul, out of deference to his Jewish clients or possibly as a protest against the undignified manner of swearing in a witness with his hat on and with the book reversed purchased a copy of the Hebrew Scriptures and presented it to the court where it now reposes in the depths of the clerk's desk.

VOTERS TO FACE A 7-FOOT BALLOT

South Dakotans Will Have Struggle With the Largest Ticket Ever Known.

Fine Print Covers It

Besides Candidates Many New Laws Are Submitted and Also Amendments.

Siooux Falls, S. D., Nov. 4.—The voters of South Dakota at the election on Nov. 8 will have submitted to them the longest ballot yet voted in the history of the world. This ballot will be over seven feet in length and will contain proposed laws which are submitted to the voters under the referendum amendment to the state constitution.

The election will be held in the evening and the ballot will be about fifteen inches in width, and will be filled from top to bottom with closely printed ordinary type. More than two feet of the ballot. Owing to the gigantic size of the ballot boxes have had to be manufactured for all the larger voting precincts in the state.

These are about as large as small trunks, and after the election is over the boxes will be sent to the state capital in the future. It is suggested that after election they might be sold at public auction and utilized for shirt-waist boxes and window seats.

The first proposed law which appears on the special ballot is one providing for the county option method of handling the liquor question.

Another proposed law requires railroads companies having lines in South Dakota to equip their locomotives with electric headlights of not less than 1,500 candle power without the aid of a reflector. The law provides that within four months from the date of its adoption in the event that it is adopted—the railway companies must equip all locomotives used in passenger service with the required headlights.

Another proposed law gives the governor power to remove or suspend any official who refuse or neglect to perform their sworn duties.

Another is an act to amend the laws relating to the transportation of dead bodies, and to provide for examination and licensing of embalmers.

Still another proposed law provides for the reorganization of the state national guard along lines proposed by the national war department.

One of the most important of the proposed laws provides for the division of the state into two congressional districts. Ever since South Dakota was admitted as a state congressmen have been elected at large without regard to districts, and this is the first time it has been attempted to create regular congressional districts.

FELL 35 FEET; NECK BROKEN

Foreman of Stonecutter's On New Court House Building Met Swift Death.

Was Found in Basement

Discovered at Late Hour This Morning, Had Been Dead Some Time.

Lying in the basement of the new court house with his neck broken and, according to the doctor, having been dead for three hours, L. G. White, the foreman of the stone cutters at work on the building, was found this morning by a laborer on the works at 10:30 a.m.

The laborer had gone up to the top of the building to sweep the snow away and had just by chance happened to find the body of the man lying in a peculiar position. He called the attention of his comrades to the work on making a closer inspection of the body found it to be that of White.

Mr. McMillan was immediately sent for and afterwards the doctor, Dr. Forin, who sent for the ambulance of Connelly and McKinley, after having pronounced life extinct.

At present there is an air of mystery surrounding the occurrence. Last night White did not go home to the boarding house on Elizabeth Street where he lives and it is not known where he was during the night. At 5:30 he was seen at the Yale Hotel and again at 7 p.m. he was seen by the time of the watchman at the court house. He went there in company with a man named Main who was carrying a bag of tools. They both went into the blacksmith's shop and procured a file to file the shovel which was a new one. This file, they went away, and Main left him.

White's uncle, in the morning, Mr. Grant, who is the caretaker at the telephone building, Mr. Grant, in company with a Mr. Nichols, went over to the King Edward Hotel last night about 8 p.m. and there he saw his nephew talking to another man. Mr. Grant then went to the Bijou Theatre and returned to the King Edward about 11 p.m. at which time White was not there. Mr. Grant said that it would not be unusual if White did not go to his room last night as he had been known to stay away all night before.

He might have stayed out late, you know," said Mr. Grant, "and then have decided to go to the office on the works and sit by the fire till it was time to work the next morning. Just the funny thing," he continued, "was

Edmonton Through English Eyes

Correspondent of the London "Economist" Paid us a Visit and Then Simply Had to Tell his Readers in England and Other Parts of the World the Great Possibilities of the Edmonton District.

The correspondent of the London Economist, who visited Edmonton in September last and the longer the stay of the midsummer days lasts. At Fort Vermilion, which is some 400 miles north of Edmonton, magnificent crops of wheat and other grains have been raised for many years, and the ordinary farming operations are said to have been successful in this neighborhood.

At Fort Vermilion, however, forms but a portion of the district of which Edmonton is the distributing point. The manure about 25,000 sections of miles of fertile country, now partially settled and capable of supporting a large farming population, look to this city as their commercial center.

From the foregoing it will have been gathered that the conditions are favorable for the development of a great wholesale center. There are facilities for transportation, a large body of land capable of indefinite expansion, which is protected from competition by a very long railway line, and a very long railway line from the nearest manufacturing centers.

It is impossible to compute the extent of the territory for which Edmonton is the distributing point. The city is situated at an altitude of 2,000 feet, and the ground dips to the north. Thus, though one gets into more northerly latitudes as one goes north the climate does not get colder; for

"Whereas, it is deemed that the conservation of the waterpower of the streams of the province and the development of same by the government for the benefit of the people as a whole, is a matter of the greatest importance to our future development.

Be it resolved, that this council petition the government of the province to appoint a commission to investigate the water power resources of Alberta with a view to the establishment of a hydro-electric system by the province.

YES! MAYOR LEE WILL MEET MR. POTTER ALL RIGHT, SURE!

Maybe Not Next Monday Night, But Each Will Have Their Little Say on Potter's Railway Scheme.

"Oh, Mr. Potter and I will have a talk about his railway scheme," said Mayor Lee, this morning to a Capital reporter, who asked him if he would accept the challenge of Mr. A. E. Potter, president of the Municipal Improvement League, to meet him on the platform of the Oddfellows hall, on November 9, "but I don't think that I can arrange it for that night."

"I have been in Calgary about two years, but we have all been in Calgary, which is four miles from Calgary, but in the vicinity, for several years ago."

"Were you engaged in mining?"

"Yes, prospecting and in development work."

"Why didn't you take up land in Ontario?"

"We didn't like the country there. There is no farming until you get north of Cobalt and Haliburton. From New Liskeard up the White River there is a good belt of clay and sand."

"Where is it the Government of Ontario is taking settlers?"

"That must be up towards Cobalt, but the whole country is too heavily timbered with pine, spruce, tamarac, balsam, birch, poplar, white wood, to take a life-line to clear a road."

"Why don't you, with your knowledge of prospecting go up to the Peace River, suggested the reporter."

"We were going there but it is now too late to start on that trip. We'll get up there some day."

Following the request of the Temperance and Moral Reform League, for the appointment by the city council of a censor for the moving picture theatres of the city, the Mayor has received notification of the resolution passed at the meeting of the affiliated women's societies of Edmonton held in the Y. M. C. A. last week, that a censor not only for the moving picture theatres, but also for all places in the city where moving pictures are shown, should be appointed.

The request of the Moral Reform League came on for discussion at the last meeting of the city council, and was referred to the commissioners. The second request will also come on for discussion at the usual way, and action will probably be deferred until the report of the commissioners received.

EXPECT THAT HAWES WILL FILE AFFIDAVIT

Henwood and Harrison, who are acting for Alfred Hawes, in his suit against W. R. Clarke, and the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway, including George D. Minty, have intended word yet that Hawes intends to file an affidavit that Minty is a shareholder in the defendant concern, and a proper party to the action.

The necessity for such an affidavit has been evinced by the decision of Mr. Justice Stuart in the Supreme Court on Tuesday in connection with the application for the striking out of Minty's name from the statement of claim.

However, it is expected that Hawes will comply with the decision of the court by filing the affidavit.

In that case, the application by Minty will be dismissed.

(The Premier and Mrs. Sifton will leave for their first week-end Thursday evening, Nov. 10th from 9 to 12, at their home "Larch Kennage," corner Fifth and Victoria streets.

WAS NO CASE FOR DAMAGES HERE

Man Whose Team Was Frightened by Sprinkler Loss Case In Court.

The case of Kelly against City of Edmonton for damages for an accident caused by a sprinkler on Jasper Ave., was dismissed with costs by Judge Taylor in the district court this morning.

On June 15th last, one of the large city sprinklers was coming east on Jasper Avenue and when approaching Tenth street a team was noticed standing at the north-east corner of the intersection of the streets. The driver signalled frantically to the motorman who shut off the water, applied the brakes, and brought the car to a dead stop within forty feet of the vehicle. The horses, however, were badly frightened, plunged and started, and the driver, who was standing on the platform, was seriously injured. The accident was due to no negligence on the part of the city or its employees, so dismissed the case.

Mr. Robertson of Robertson, Dixon and McDonald, appeared for the plaintiff and Mr. Brown for the city.

ALL LIKE LEMIEUX

(Canadian Associated Press)

London, Nov. 4.—The correspondence of the Times has been quoted, says Hon. Rudolph Lemieux, is universally recognized as the ablest and most distinguished of the delegates from other dominions. Programs of race and language are always delicate subjects for discussion at such gatherings as these which are now taking place but Lemieux has succeeded in steering a course between mere meaningless optimism and an appearance of lecturing. His speeches are admirable in form as they are in substance.

A NOTABLE CONSERVATIVE
CONVERT TO HOME RULE

The recent speeches of Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M. P., in Alberta and elsewhere in which he stated the Irish demands with great moderation and intimated that the so long distressed island would be satisfied with Home Rule all round for the four parts of the United Kingdom, have aroused widespread comment. But the changed attitude of this distinguished Nationalist leader is no more significant than that of Mr. J. L. Garvin, probably the ablest and most aggressive Unionist journalist in the world, who discusses the question in an article which is given a conspicuous place in the London Observer. The Capital has an apology to make for an extended reference to it. Those who have followed British politics even casually will be able to appreciate all that it means.

The Observer "differs with regret" from its party friends, "including some of the keenest forward spirits in the Unionist party," who urge that the negotiations between the two Houses be confined to the narrow limit as upon which they split, and that failing a settlement a general election be forced on in January "upon the strength of an appeal to the country to turn out the present Government before the Imperial Conference assemblies." It gives some direct and unpalatable advice to the party as to its real strength. It refuses "to prime itself with Dutch courage" and declares that unless a change is made in the situation the Unionist party "has next to no chance of winning a general election in January."

And if it is beaten or cannot govern—what then? What of the Second Chamber? What of the Tariff Reform? What of the Imperial Conference? What of every Imperial hope hitherto connected with the coming of the Coronation? A third defeat of Preference at the polls, even though that defeat were once more secured by the Irish vote, would that be a fortunate prelude to the Imperial Conference? With a bounding revenue and a lavishly insured coming out with a bill for payment of members, to be introduced, in all probability, before the next election could take place, coupled with the practical impossibility that the peers could reject such a bill, in all the circumstances created by the Osborne judgment—the present Government, instead of being dislodged, would come back stronger than ever to preside over the Imperial Conference in spite of all.

Nothing whatever would have been done for Preference or Tariff Reform. Then, indeed, the failure of the Second Chamber to ratify the agreement, there, indeed, we should probably see Home Rule carried and other Unionist causes would be at the end of the road. That is our view of the position, and as we see it we are bound to state it.

And so the Observer urges a "larger settlement" of the dispute between the Houses, in which the Irish question is dealt with.

If there is now to be any present possibility of a settlement by consent, if there is to be any chance of preserving a strong Second Chamber fairly composed, there is to be the slightest probability of making the next Imperial conference a definite means towards closer Imperial Union—and these two latter are main objects of Unionist action, and cannot for a single moment be abandoned or subordinated—the Unionist party must face the new phase of the Irish question. It will have to recognize that one age of the Irish question is closed for ever, and that another age is opened.

Some things have happened which have put the Irish question into "manageable shape." Home Rule in the Gladstonian sense is dead and never can be resurrected as the result of Redmond's "conversion."

The financial and agrarian changes at the last few years have irrevocably extinguished it. Old-age Pensions alone have forced upon the Unionist the Nationalists dare not attempt to break by any system of Gladstonian Home Rule. Changes in the Imperial Exchequer. Sir Horace Plunkett's great agricultural movement, the efforts of Unionists like Lord Dunsany, of Tariff Reformers and deeply sincere Imperialists like Mr. T. A. Bracey: above all, the new appeal to Irish common sense made by Mr. William O'Brien and Mr. Healey—these things have led up gradually to a definite modification of the Irish demand for self-government and to a new recognition at last of some fundamental conditions of the relations between Ireland and Great Britain.

The new programme of "federalism" declared by Mr. Redmond cannot, says the Observer "be dismissed without discussion full and fair, serious and temperate." From Mr. Redmond's programme it points out, every suggestion of separation is explicitly eliminated and the Unionist party cannot lightly take the responsibility of driving back into the extremist camp all the new elements of moderation in Home Rule opinion—"the Unionist party is morally bound to confer with Mr. Redmond." Tariff Reformers cannot, it maintains, reject out of hand any idea of such a settlement "if they are to have any regard to the opinion of the Empire and to the future political interests of the whole English-speaking world."

One of the phrases considered by the Observer is a statement made by Roosevelt "to engineers" when in England, "that no alliance or formal entente can now be possible between the British Empire and the United States while the Irish question remains upon its present footing." Cecil Rhodes, "pioneered with far-reaching vision the theory of a federal solution of the Irish question just as he was the moral founder of South Africa Union."

It is well known that the most ardent advocate today of the federal solution of the Irish question—after a communication that appeared in "The Times" last week—was known initials, it cannot be indiscreet to reveal the fact—Lord Grey, the Governor-General of Canada. And yet Lord Grey, certain to be one of the organizing leaders of the Unionist party and of all its Imperial causes when he returns to this country, was one of the first organizers of the Liberal Unionist revolt against Mr. Gladstone in 1885.

"That should be enough the Observer thinks, to give Unionists pause before they plunge irrevocably into a demand for the federal solution, if everything in the Irish question has changed, but it goes on to quote Laurier of Canada, Deakin of Australia, Botha and Fitzpatrick of South Africa "who hold strongly the view for which we are now asking new and serious attention." Finally the Observer says:

"And now we come to the Irish Nationalists themselves. Their real leader in the United States is Mr. Bourke Cochrane, an orator, politician, and an orator and a statesman. He came into prominence in America public life as an opponent of Henry George, the socialist, and as a supporter of the Conservative cause. He accordingly detested Mr. Lloyd George's budget and the speeches in which it was advocated. That is, he was a Conservative. For very various reasons Mr. Redmond was bound to concede the fact of an Irish settlement in a Conservative sense. For very various reasons he has given full weight to it."

But the Observer would have the Conservative party attach conditions to any settlement. There are, of course, certain conditions from which Unionists cannot in any circumstances recede. If these conditions are laid down by them and followed by Mr. Asquith and Mr. Redmond together, then, indeed, we believe that the situation as it exists will become completely transformed and that Unionists will be able to take up the fight and win clean out. There are, however, other conditions. These are the question of the Second Chamber; there is the question of the Navy and of the Imperial Customs; there is the question of Imperial Preference.

With Nationalists and with men like Mr. Garvin, moving so strongly in the same direction, a move along the lines indicated cannot be long delayed.

What Others Say

IS ROOSEVELT A PLAGARIST?

From the Ottawa Free Press.

Theodore Roosevelt is very fond of the expression "beaten to a frazzle," and most people have imagined that it was one of his own creations, but, alas, it is merely a proof that the ex-President is a student of Kingling, who in one of his earlier works wrote of "fingers scratched to frazzles." And investigation proves that, like so many other "Americanisms," it is of English origin. The word "frazzle" is a good old provincial word, derived from the word "frazz," which the Pilgrim Fathers brought across the Atlantic with them. It is still encountered through the eastern counties of England, and especially in Suffolk, where, in hemming, cloth is said to frazzle when the threads pull out lengthways for want of selvedge.

OBJECTING TO CRITICISM

From the Woodstock Sentinel Review.
Because Dr. MacNair presumed to offer to the Toronto Board of Education some criticisms of the way the work of medical inspection was done, she has been asked to hand in her resignation as a medical inspector. One might think that a public body like a board of education would be glad to avail itself of the educational value of criticism, of such criticism, at any rate, as would assist it in discharging its duties to the public, but boards of education have sometimes peculiar ideas of education.

MR. MORGAN'S EXERCISE

From the New York Mail.
J. Pierpont Morgan is certainly a wizard—as most people think him to be—if George Elbhe Turner tells the truth about him in the November "McClure." Mr. Turner would have us believe that when Mr. Morgan was in his fifties he had very poor health, and went to a great New York physician, who said to him: "Stop exercise in every form. Never even walk when you can take a cab. You have formed the habit of living without exercise, giving your energy to your brain. It is too late to change the habit of a lifetime." Mr. Morgan followed implicitly. Since that time he has absolutely shunned exercise; has eaten heavily and smoked much—and has buried all his own business and personal affairs in the hands of a few trusted assistants. The moral of this story seems to be that if you have important business on hand you may further it by abandoning all wholesome diversions in the open air and devoting your spare time to eating, drinking and smoking. If he were a selfish and malignant man—which he is not—Mr. Morgan could not hope for anything better than that his business rivals should take this advice.

WONDERFUL DOLLS HOUSE

A Miniature Palace at a London Bazaar Which Took Five Years To Build.

Lady Lansdowne lent Lansdowne House recently for the Dolls' Bazaar in London, organized by Lady Beatrix Wilkinson in aid of the endowment fund of the St. Nicholas' Home for crippled children.

Several stalls were given up entirely to dolls' assembly frocks and furniture, as well as novelties in the shape of dolls' toys. Hundreds of children gathered round the stalls, and critically examined the dolls' clothes before selecting purchases.

The millinery stall was a great attraction. Here were to be seen hats à la russe, the river coquette, the Scottish moor, and, as the dolls' world, while the variety of dolling military and bathing caps—all for dolls—was remarkable.

Lady Lansdowne and her sisters Lady Landisford and Lady Edmonstone, superintended the Dolls' Bazaar, the stalls in which were in full charge the daughters of Devonshire and Lady Waterford. The interest centered about the contents of a wonderful dolls' house. The structure is about seven feet square, and it was made at Wilton House, Salisbury, the work occupying five years. Captain Wilkinson (Ulster King of Arms), who is an expert on heraldry and the fine arts, designed the "residence," and carved the splendid oak folding doors which connect the two main rooms.

Queen Alexandra opened this dolls' house with a golden key two years ago, when it was visited by Edward and Lady Penelope at Wilton House. The key was handed to her Majesty by Geraldine Wilkinson, the "architect's" little daughter.

The structure, says the London Chronicle, took five years to make and the furnishings is not yet finished. As far as possible, only antique furniture, silver and china, are used, and Captain Wilkinson and Lady Mabel Herbert have collected all the necessary articles.

The library is fairly complete. There are volumes of the poets in good vellum and shagreen, their encasement half an inch in length and there are "mighty tomes," dated 1604 which could be hidden in a man's hand. On the hall table lay a visitor's book the size of a postage stamp. As Queen Alexandra was the first guest to enter the dolls' house, hers is the first signature on the book. Everything is Lilliputian in size. The Jacobean buffet is eight inches long, and close by is an old oak table of corresponding dimensions. A Georgian silver buker the size of a thumb is flanked by miniature Queen Anne candlesticks, and a silver-plated "Nuremberg" tankard, still in its original case, is a charmingly small Venetian glass, and tea and coffee urns are among the matchless.

The grand piano is a masterpiece in saloonwood and mahogany. It is a perfect model, thoroughly in tune, and can be played upon, although a child's hand would know the whole keyboard. It is the work of Mr. Putland, but a magnifying glass is necessary to decipher his name on the tablet which appears in the usual place over the keyboard. A burglar might carry off most of the contents of the room, piano included, in a hat!

Electric Restorer for Men

Phonograph restores every man's hair to its natural condition. It is a perfect model, thoroughly in tune, and can be played upon, although a child's hand would know the whole keyboard. It is the work of Mr. Putland, but a magnifying glass is necessary to decipher his name on the tablet which appears in the usual place over the keyboard. A burglar might carry off most of the contents of the room, piano included, in a hat!

JIM DELEHANTY NEARLY WON ARGUMENT FROM TIM HURST

When Del Began to Scrape the Patent Leather From Tim's Boots With his Spikes, it was the Club House for His.

Jim Delehanty, who played such great ball for the Tigers after being traded to Jennings by the Washington team, had a funny experience with Umpire Tim Hurst back in the fall of 1907. Delehanty as a result lays claim to having nearly won an argument from Sir Timothy.

Philadelphia and Washington were playing a double-header on the last day of the season. As little depended on the outcome of the game, Delehanty wasn't very anxious to play. He figured on getting an early train for his home in Cleveland that evening, and if he was compelled to play both games it was anything but a good deal that he would be able to make his connections.

A rule had been promulgated by President Johnson that if a player was still standing, that if a player was not out of the first game he was not allowed to take part in the second game. Now, Delehanty and Tim were always the best of friends, but Jim knew that if he requested Tim to put him out Hurst would keep him in just for spite. He decided the only thing to do was to let the umpire politely kick himself out of the clubhouse.

Hurst and Connolly were umpiring the games, with Tim behind the bat in the opening contest. Delehanty started right off the reel to kick on perfect strikes, and before Tim got a word to him he almost sent him out of the clubhouse.

"I see through you, Mr. Delehanty; you don't want to play in the second game. It's nice and warm today, so I guess I'll keep you at second all day, no matter what you do," said Timothy. The thermometer stood around 70.

Try as he might, Delehanty was unable to do anything that would make Tim toss him out of the game. In the very first innings of the second game, with Tim working the bases, a Philadelphia player tried to steal second and was declared safe. Tim started walking back to his position, and Delehanty followed closely. He protested loudly on the play, and on each step managed to just catch the heels of Hurst's patent leather shoes with his spikes.

Now if there is any hobby that Hurst has it's patent leather shoes. Tim had on a new pair that day, and he realized that Delehanty's spikes must be playing havoc with them. He kept threatening Delehanty with all kinds of dire penalties if Jim failed to return to his position immediately, and Tim finally lost his temper.

"That's just what Delehanty wanted, and without another word he started for the clubhouse on a dead end. At the same moment it occurred to Tim that he had played right into Del's hands.

"Come back here and finish the game or it will cost you fifty!" shouted Tim in his best voice. Delehanty only ran all the harder.

"I didn't put it out if you fail to return at once it will cost you a hundred strikes, and hundred!" yelled Tim. Delehanty was closing the door of the clubhouse.

The players were wise in a moment, and everybody enjoyed a laugh at Tim's expense over the incident. It took Tim some time to appreciate it, but he finally fell in line.

That evening, on thinking it over, he decided that the joke was on him, so strongly that he failed to send in either the fine for fifty or a hundred.

mand for the day on the field. It is given after the scrimmage work is all done and the men have been lined up at the upper end of the field for a race to some building on the university grounds. The moment it is given the whole line is off as though fired from a catapult. The men rush down the field like a lot of Indians, hair flying in the wind, heads up, lips pressed together and every muscle straining in a race each man strives to win.

In Training Quarters
The work of the day is over. The men now go to the dressing room, and whither manœuvre have gone any who have been injured during the practice. Here the secrets of the condition of the men and their weight are disclosed, but only to those who have the privileges of the room. After the accoutrements of the field have been thrown aside each man steps on a pair of scales and weighs himself. In this way each keeps close on his weight and his physical condition.

Just Before A Big Game
The days just before big games are days of great work for the team at such times usually disappears entirely from the university world. Inquiry will usually develop the fact that the men have gone off into the country under the care of the head coach and his assistants. Here, where there is no danger of a spying eye, the finishing touches are put on the team's practice. It is lightened a bit the last day so that the men may not get into the game tired. When the team appears on the field after such a vacation every man is usually in the perfection of condition. It is battle, too, a battle in which the opening forces do not seek to injure each other, but battle in which brain is matched against brain, battle without bloodshed by accident. It is this that makes the game so fascinating for the student, and will always make it the great game among college men.

—Time of Games is Changed
—Belanger for Referee.
The Edmonton rugby team which meets Calgary Tigers, champions of Alberta, at Diamond Park, Saturday, will have a slightly changed lineup from the one that played in Calgary on Thanksgiving Day.

Hardy, who badly battered up from the last game and will be missing from the line-up, O'Donnald, or Wilson will play center half, with Grant filling the vacancy on the half line.

The change will be made on the forward line, Bishop going to inside wing, with Alec McDonald in the scrum.

Owing to the shortness of the days at present, the executive last night decided to change the times for the Saturday games.

The University of Alberta vs. Western Canada College game will commence at 1:30 instead of the advertised 2 o'clock, while the Eskimo-Tiger match will commence at 3 o'clock instead of 3:30. The game in Calgary was finished in semi-darkness and the local management does not want the same thing to occur here.

Mr. C. H. Belanger will referee, while a Calgary referee will also referee. The touch line judges, markers, goal judges and timers will all be appointed on Saturday morning, so there will be no delay in getting the game under way.

The weather man reports that the barometer is rising, so the beautiful which as the poets say, at present blankets Mother Earth, should be lifted.

Indoor practice will be held at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium this evening from 6:15 to 7 o'clock and the following players are requested to be on the job: Dykes, Wilson, Grant, O'Donnald, McCarthy, Crickmore, Mervin, Vermette, Barnes, Bishop, A. McDonald, Roughton, Scrapper McDonald, Starke, Gibson, Combs, Parselle, Conway, Kennedy.

In the forenoon at 10:30, the Alberta College sports team, which was the only Edmonton football team to score a victory in Calgary on Thanksgiving Day, will meet the Calgary Normal School at Diamond Park. Alberta College has had one goal scored on this season and its intent is to let any more penetrate their goal nets.

University of Alberta, which plays Western Canada College at 1:30, is a 100 per cent. improved, and should undoubtedly win. The Collegians moved out in the snow last evening and went through a vigorous coaching at the hands of Mr. Belanger. The varsity line-up will be practically the same as played in Calgary.

Mr. Brockell, of the Y. M. C. A., last night received a wire saying that the Calgary Y. M. C. A. basketball team would not be up tomorrow. Home and home games will be arranged for Christmas and New Years. The Calgary excursion arrives in town at 7:30 and the Tigers and a number of their supporters will make their headquarters at the Hotel Cecil. The other teams will scatter around among the different hotels.

THE HERALD RACE

There is a chance that several local runners will enter the Herald Road Race in Calgary on Christmas Day. Decease, Brockell, and Dunham should be able to bring home some of the trophies.

POLICE SEIZED FIGHT FILMS

Mounted Police Will Not Allow Jeffries-Johnson Pictures in Sask.

Regina, Nov. 4.—A party of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, under Inspector Jeffreys, pounced on a local theatre in which the pictures of the Johnson-Jeffries prize fight were being exhibited and seized the machines and the films.

The raid took place at noon when the house was about half full. Three rounds of the performance had been run off when the arm of the law intervened. The manager of the establishment offered no resistance, of course, and the admission charges were returned at the box office.

Patrons soon recovered from the excitement caused by the sudden action of the police. The raid followed instructions from the department of the attorney general and means that fight pictures will not be shown in Saskatchewan. The police officers are carrying out their instructions to the letter as usual and are retaining the equipment.

SILK AND PRINCESS ALICE

Now if there is one thing that Silk O'Loughlin is proud of it is his voice. He takes much care of his vocal cords than the average high priced singer. Nothing gives him greater delight than yelling "Strike out!" in his highest key.

Once Alice Roosevelt, now Mrs. Roosevelt, attended a game in Washington, and O'Loughlin, in order to thoroughly convince the daughter of Theodore that for strenuousness Ted had nothing on him, put forth his best efforts. They do say that the echo could be plainly heard in Baltimore, but it's impossible to verify such a statement.

THIRD'S TEAM WON

In the opening game of the Y.M.C.A. junior working boys' basketball league last night, Third's team won from Howling's 6-0. It was a nice game to watch, and some of the lads looked good for better contests.

STUDENTS' PARADE

The University of Alberta students will attend the Varsity-Western Canada College game tomorrow in body. A parade will be formed, over on the Seena side, at noon, and will march to Diamond Park, to the time of leap high college yell.

JIMMY POTTS AND THOMPSON

Carstair Athletic Club Arranging for a Bout for a $600 Purse.

Carstairs is surely a sporty little town and loves a boxing exhibition mightily. When the Potts-Thompson and Atell-Merino bouts were being exhibited at the Carstairs, eighteen months ago, the citizens are now making arrangements to bring Potts and Maurice Thompson together for a $600 purse.

If this match is made it promises to be the best ever held in the west. The two men have already met on three different occasions, with the result in every case a draw.

If the Carstairs Athletic Club succeeds in bringing the two men together a large Edmonton crowd will undoubtedly go south for the bout.

CALGARY TEAM IS UNCHANGED

Strongest Bowlers in the South Will Play at Olympic Alleys on Saturday.

The Olympic Alleys will be a busy place on Saturday when the Calgary Pickers team plays their return game here.

If present arrangements hold good 6 games will be divided into two series, of three games, one in the morning and the other after dinner. The Olympics will play in Calgary, namely—Eddie Morris, Carmichael, Simonton, Gossnell, Miller and maybe Walter Blackett.

Speaking of the games, the Calgary Albertians say—

"When the local bowlers go north on Saturday, they have to win two out of the six games played with Edmonton. The 24th and 25th of November Monday won two, so Calgary should do the same. There is no reason why they should not, as the Olympic Alleys are good, true and fast, so that playing away from home will not make such an awful difference although it will make a little.

The team to go north on Saturday will be chosen this evening. The old stagers will be necessary in the morning, playing on strange alleys. Although White and Somers are good on the Exchange it is doubtful if they could hold their own away from home in a big game. Mitchell, Lief, Bowser, Scott, Henthorne and Smith look like the team that should play, and no doubt this will be the team to travel."

THE INTERNATIONAL

Lethbridge, Nov. 4.—President T. D. Kevin, of the Lethbridge Professional Baseball Club, has received several letters from friends in different parts of Montana, as a result of which he says that the prospects are splendid for an Alberta-Montana baseball league next season. Butte and Great Falls are both ready after the proposed league, and Helena to a smaller degree. Mr. Kevin says there is no doubt in his mind now that the league will be a go.

We beg to inform our many patrons that we are using a temporary label for our "Capitol" Beer as an injunction has been granted by the Courts restraining us from using our original "Capitol" label pending our law suit with the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Association, of St. Louis, Mo. The quality of "Capitol" however will be just the same, or better if we can make it so; and judging from the demand we are sure that our patrons know from experience that it is the BEER and not the label that has made "Capitol" so widely popular.

CY. WARMAN DOES LOVE TO KNOCK GOVT. ROADS

Cy Warman, the well-known Canadian author and publisher for the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, is in Edmonton today. Yesterday, Mr. Warman made a trip to the western construction camps and to a Capital reporter this morning, he stated that his reason for doing so was to see for himself the conditions of the camp and of the men employed.

"The railroad construction camps of Canada, in respect of their general conditions, the treatment of the men, and the housing facilities, could hardly be improved upon, and that applied to the Grand Trunk Pacific construction camps west of Edmonton," was Mr. Warman's summation up of the conditions as he found them.

"The better you treat men in some cases, the more kickers," continued Mr. Warman, "and I tell you, and you can publish this, that the conditions in the western construction camps are all that can be desired."

"But what about the complaints of the men that they did not receive their money?" asked the reporter.

"This is due probably to mistakes, or to the ignorance of the employees of the way in which they should collect their wages. The system adopted by the Grand Trunk Pacific in paying their men, is to give them identification checks, when they ask for funds or leave the service, which they must present at the Edmonton office. The Edmonton representative of the company wires to the camp to ascertain the amount due the men and pays them on receipt of the answer. It would be impossible for the G. T. P. to issue checks at the construction camps, as is done by Foley, Welsh and Stewart.

"Foley, Welsh and Stewart have no money they give their men funds on application or when they are discharged or leave the service, and they pay them by check, right there. Can you beat it?"

Speaking of the progress of the Grand Trunk Pacific, Mr. Warman stated that the road would be completed to the coast in three years. By Christmas, he expects that the line under construction by Foley, Welsh and Stewart would reach Prairie Creek, while by the spring it would cross the Athabasca River.

"I never did believe in government railroads," said Mr. Warman, respecting the Hudson Bay Railroad, "in fact it is a hobby of mine to knock government railroads. I think the Hudson Bay Railroad is a crazy idea, impracticable, and a pipe dream. That is my own mind, I am speaking for myself and not for the Grand Trunk Pacific."

THE PLASTERERS' STRIKE

The plasterers strike remains the same and both sides claim victory. The men say they have no word of order, but they are expecting a long-drawn-out battle as the former secretary has already left the city to find work elsewhere.

A new light was thrown on the fight by remarks thrown out by a plasterer in the course of a conversation yesterday. "The whole attitude of the Exchange came out in their dealings with the National Builders' Association. When the president and secretary were addressing the local exchange they said practically this: 'The Builders' Association is out to fight organized labor. Why it's preposterous to have to submit to an eight hour day such as you have here. Had you been leagued with the National Association there would have been a different story to tell. If you associate yourselves with the National Builders you can then receive their aid in fighting a strike for men can be rushed from place to place according to your requirements, especially in case of strike.'

The attitude of this speaker seemed to indicate that the men look with apprehension on the coming affiliation of the local exchange with the National Association of Builders and feel that this is their last opportunity to obtain their rights before the proposed union takes place.

FALLS THIRTY-FIVE FEET

that the night watchman at the building did not see him.

Fell from "Runway"

The place where the body was found was just underneath the runway up which the wheelbarrows are pushed and the general theory at present is that White must have slipped while walking up it and broken his neck by the fall. The men go to work about 8 a.m. and the body was not found till 10 a.m. and then it was only by chance that a laborer happened to look down and see it. It is usually the habit of those who work on the tops of buildings to keep their eyes up, so that it is by the merest chance that the body was found.

White is a Scotchman from Edinburgh, and has been in North America for about ten years. He is an expert stone cutter and worked at different jobs all over the United States and Canada. His uncle, Mr. Grant, is from Glasgow.

The inquest will be held by Coroner Foran at 2 p.m. this afternoon at Connolly and McKinley's parlors.

CHEWS CAN SAVE HALF FOOD COST

Horace Fletcher Says Improper Mastication Makes Men Criminals.

EXTRACT ALL THE TASTE

One Time High Liver in Chicago Able at 61 to Defy Diseases and Senility.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—The increased cost of living demand is face to face with his arch enemy today in Chicago.

Horace Fletcher, the apostle of thorough mastication, has arrived. He is armed with arguments to prove we can save 50 per cent. of what we spend on food and be stronger than we ever were before.

Mr. Fletcher is 61 years old himself, but he holds endurance and weight lifting records, all made in the last six years. Here is the set of men day's menu for Fletcher:

Breakfast—None. Do half a day's work before eating anything.
Luncheon—1 baked potato.
Bread and butter.
One glass of cream.
One sliced tomato.
Dinner—Bowl of thick soup, with bread.
Midnight supper—A glass of milk on a wench rasher.

Mr. Fletcher eats no meat. He says he has no rule against meat, but that he has lost his taste for it. Mr. Fletcher's system of eating depends entirely on complete mastication. All food must be chewed until all its taste has been extracted. This reduces it to a liquid and the act of swallowing is involuntary. Eat what you please. He said had eating makes criminals.

Desire For Drink Ends According to Mr. Fletcher, the desire for alcoholic drink and smoking dies out of a man who eats in this way. All the poisons disappear from the system and the former victim of dyspepsia, appendicitis, fatty degeneration, malnutrition, and unpleasant after dinner sensations becomes strong and clear headed.

"I was a confirmed high liver up to the time I was 54 years old," said Mr. Fletcher. "I thought life wasn't worth living without rich foods and wines and black cigars. I weighed 175 pounds, and I couldn't walk a block without getting blue in the face. I tried to get my life insured and the examiner laughed at me."

Mr. Fletcher weighs 170 pounds, and he can pick up a 175 pound man and stroll about with him. It is all due to chewing his food to liquid, he says.

Mr. Fletcher says his famous system has its birth right here in Chicago.

Had Tried Every Diet Prescribed "The idea came to me on Congress street near Wabash avenue," he said, "I had tried every diet specialists could prescribe. It came to me and I decided that all these prescriptions were to take effect after the food had passed beyond our control. I resolved to try what could be done with the food before it left my mouth."

"My first experiment centered about the sense of taste. That is the key to the whole question of digestion. When all the taste is chewed out of food it will be perfectly digested."

"After I had practiced on myself I hired a gang of twelve tramps to experiment on. I took them into restaurants of every sort from expensive hotels to lunch counters. I proved all my theories."

Mr. Fletcher is a capitalist and a sociologist. He is married and has a family. His residence is in Venice Italy. His first book, "Economic Nutrition," was written in 1908. It has been followed by half a dozen others on the same subject.

WILL OF MISSOURI FARMER DISPOSES OF $4,000,000

Estate of David Rankin of Tarkio is Divided Among Four Heirs—Varied Holdings Were Incorporated

Tarkio, Mo., Nov. 4.—The will of David Rankin, was filed in court here today. The total value of the estate is estimated at $4,000,000.

Some time ago Mr. Rankin incorporated almost all his holdings under the name of the Rankin Farm. This included the stock of the Midland Plow factory, First National Bank, Tarkio Electric and Water company, Auditorium building, and about 25,000 acres of land. The shares were divided at the time among the four heirs.

Mr. W. F. Rankin, Miss Esther Rankin, Mr. John Rankin, all of Tarkio, Mo., and Mrs. J. E. Hanna, of Riverside, Cal.

These shares were transferred at the time of incorporation, and the will merely confirmed the transfer.

The will disposed of Mr. Rankin's home residence and 100 acres of land near Tarkio. This was given to Miss Esther Rankin. All the rest of his personal property was divided equally among the four heirs named.

This will gave $1,000,000 to Tarkio college. This brings Mr. Rankin's total benefactions to the institution up to $3,335,000.

IN THE SUPREME COURT

In Anderson vs. Bresnahan His Lordship Justice Stuart rendered judgment in the Supreme Court this morning deciding the property in question between plaintiff and defendant. The plaintiff Albert Anderson, claimed a quarter section of land purchased from the C. P. R. by the defendant, Mrs. Rebecca Bresnahan, his sister. The whole arrangement was most hazy and haphazard, but the intention seemed to be at the time of the purchase that Mrs. Bresnahan should live on it while doing her household duties, and so would be nearer to her sister, who had also homesteaded in the vicinity and that when her household duties were completed she would allow her brother to finish the payment, reimburse her, and take over the land. Later on coming to the conclusion that she would like the land herself for purposes of investment she refused to carry out her agreement and on this grounds her brother took action for specific performance of the agreement.

The land will be divided equally between the parties. No costs were given.
